

Drew Battle | Manager

Raleigh, NC | DOH: June 2013

Drew has lived in North Carolina for his entire life and considers himself a country boy at heart. He met his wife LaVerne while they both attended North Carolina A&T State University (“Aggie Pride!!”) even though they were not too fond of each other at that time. But they worked it out and have been married to each other for well over half their lives and have three children – Sydney, Jonathan, and Susan. Drew has worked in the financial services industry for over twenty years, even spending a little time as an advisor (which gives him a unique appreciation for the work advisors have to put in to be successful).

Hobbies/Interests

Fishing, reading sci fi and fantasy – yes, he loves the Harry Potter series (don’t judge me) - and the occasional self-help book, competitive sports (Tarheels superfan and DC4L – those who know, know), video games (even though he sucks at most), board games (chess, anyone?)

Places he has travelled/visited

A host of places within the United States (except the West Coast) and Caribbean.

Places he would like to travel to/visit

Dallas Cowboys AT&T Stadium, United Kingdom, France, Italy, Greece, Okavango Delta

Fun Fact

Can balance almost anything on his fingers/hands but can’t stay up on skates if his life depended on it.

What he would bring to a potluck

Oreo and peanut butter cheesecake
